

Your Big Ideas. Our Outstanding Technology.

At PDi Digital, disrupting the Future of IIoT is what we do – as our IIoT Hardware and Embedded Software Expert, you'll be right where the action happens. We're the market leader in the field of digital displays: our innovative product range supports customers worldwide with process digitalization. By joining our team of ambitious, highly-skilled specialists, you'll help shape our exciting current and future products and bring our outstanding technology to the world. Better yet, the next big step in your career will be in an environment you'll love. In addition to our high-performance team, flat hierarchies, and short decision paths, you can enjoy work in a beautiful office that offers plenty of benefits and space to grow. Ready? Let's get disruptive together.

IIoT Hardware and Embedded Software Expert (m/w/d)

Your responsibilities

- Develop brand new Industrial IoT products from the very first idea to mass production
- Broad range of activities, among them: PCB design, component selection, schematics creation as well as firmware development
- Close cooperation with the software development department for continuous product improvements
- Technical support and consulting for partners and customers

What we expect

- >2 years of relevant professional experience in the field of embedded development (hard- and firmware)
- Excellent skills in C and C++, other programming languages are beneficial
- Excellent skills in hardware engineering (PCB design)
- Good knowledge in ARM Cortex Architecture
- Good team player with high communication skills
- Independent, solution-oriented work style
- Excellent English and good German, both written and spoken

The minimum gross salary for this position is Euro 2,556,- per month applies with readiness for overpayment depending on actual qualifications (for full-time employment).

Send your application to:
jobs@pdi-digital.com

● PDi-Digital GmbH
Kalsdorfer Straße 12
A-8072 Fernitz Mellach